

INCIDENTALS.

The moon was lovely last night. But very little doing in police circles yesterday.

The Magistrate Courts failed to produce an item yesterday.

Various hunting parties are being organized for Thanksgiving day.

Don't say "I told you so." Two to one you never said a word about it.

The officers of the law continue to arrest the pickpockets and gamblers.

The author of the saying "You must always take a man as you find him," was a constable.

Interments in Pine Forest Cemetery for the week ending November 13th were: Adults, 2; children, 1.

Reserved seats for Hall's Combination to-morrow night can be secured from Heinsberger's Live Book store.

The man with the balloons don't come around so often now. Waiting for the infantile currency to inflate, no doubt.

The man who goes to bed early these nights has to blame for his keeper. Not one of them will keep open after 12 o'clock.

Several fine horses went up to Fayetteville by the Steamer D. Marchant, and night to engage in the races there this week.

Judging from the depredations of pick pockets at the Fair we are led to the conclusion that considerable larceny "changed hands."

Sam Smith Russell has resigned the Borsari, and the company will fill the vacancy.

In consequence of the absence of the pastor, the pulpit of the Fifth St. Church, will be filled this morning and evening by Reverend James R. Craig.

On our way to the theatre last night we were met with the intelligence that "John" would not be performed, owing to the want of a sufficient audience.

In consequence of the recent rains the streets have become dirty and sloppy, and it requires some navigation in the unimproved localities to locomote so as to be free of mud.

Indians' Benevolent Society.

The Annual Meeting of the Ladies' Benevolent Society, will be held at the lecture room of the First Presbyterian Church on Orange street, on Thursday Nov. 18th, at 11 o'clock, a. m. All persons interested in the cause are earnestly invited to be present.

Market report.

The Clerk of the market reports as follows for the week ending yesterday:

No. Cows in Market..... 194
" Hogs slaughtered..... 104
" Sheep..... 19
" Calves..... 4
" Hogs..... 170
" Deer..... 5

Small Market.

Smyth, the negro who is represented to have been entertained in the parlor and at the table of a prominent white Republican of this city, has not yet had time to reply to our questions. We suppose we shall hear from him after awhile. In the mean time speculation is quite rife as to the occasion and the person. At whose house did Smyth eat and drink and sit in the parlor with other guests? Who were the guests? Let us have all the information. We can certainly assure of the fact and people want to know the particulars. It may be the host and the guests on that occasion may want the votes of white men, so you see "dar is pervasions in the bill."

The Fair.

The Fair Grounds were yesterday a scene of activity, the exhibitors being very busy putting down and taking away the articles which had been on exhibition during the continuance of the Fair. Otherwise the grounds were a lonely aspect, which several of our well known citizens took advantage of to pull off their shoes and enjoy a quiet old-fashioned foot race without the necessity of having a new pair of shoes.

A throng of spectators to view their pedestrian exhibition.

The Fair, taken altogether, has been quite a success and the indefatigable superintendent, Mr. J. A. Willard, deserves much credit for the order and system which was very apparent in the several departments. The Fair was a worthy successor to its predecessors.

The Sabbath.

The quiet rest of the Sabbath is the arrangement of Divine wisdom for the relief of the worn and tired frames of infatigable men. Why should we not enter upon the Sabbath uplifted in gratitude to our Father for his mercies, who consider our frames, who remember that we are dust? What a relief it is to our minds to lay by the arduous duties of life, to change the channel of our thought, bringing into play those which have lain dormant for the past six days and lending veneration, benevolence, charity and unbounded love have full scope and exercise. This is "the privilege of the Sabbath" upon which we now enter. Let us enter His courts with joy and thanksgiving, giving praises to the Father of all. Let there be no trifling, no lightness, but a solemn and earnest desire as expressed by the poet, "Nearer my God to Thee, nearer to Thee."

We have no desire to interfere with the pulpit in its sacred office by sermonizing, but only to exhort every one to consider the Sabbath day as one of those high and exalted days, which ought to have the most soul-subduing effect upon us while we consider the source of the blessing. Commending to our readers the religious notice column which we hope will direct them to the place of duty, we give our Sabbath greetings to each and all.

There is a solemn question as to what General Grant meant in his recent election speech when he said: "We have an assurance that the republicans will control this government for at least four years longer." Does the President mean that the late election left the field clear for the election of a republican successor to General Grant? If yes—good for the republican party!

THE FAIR!

Fourth Day's Proceedings. The Races, &c. A Large Day and a Big Crowd.

Yesterday dawned as beautiful and bright as could be desired. From an early hour numbers began to congregate towards the Fair grounds and long before noon that interesting resort was thronged with a large crowd of spectators. The main features of attraction during the forenoon, were numbers of ladies and gentlemen strolling through the different departments, viewing the ample display of goods there exhibited. There was, however, as large a crowd of visitors as on the preceding day, though the interest in the Fair seemed unabated. We heard of the usual number of pick-pockets, but did not pursue the matter to an investigation, and hence, are unable to state positively that the rumors had any foundation. The side shows, wheels of fortune, and numerous other amusements were as usual in full bloom; while a man with a hand organ, decorated from the top of a dry goods box that "heir light would take place immediately." We missed some of the ribbons and bonnets that decked the grounds on Thursday, for there was a perceptible decrease in the number of ladies from the previous day. It is needless to state that yesterday was an interesting day in the Fair calendar, although, of course the grounds were not for many reasons as attractive as on Thursday.

The several awarding committees were on their rounds through the different departments, inspecting the exhibits on exhibition, in order to decide upon the more meritorious.

Their labors will probably be continued through to-day, and we expect their report in a short time.

THE RACING.

Somebody at about 11 o'clock. The great body of spectators took their seats to the grand stand and along the railing that surrounds the race course, and the regular trotting race, according to the programme as laid down, was commenced.

For this race Huntress was entered by Harvey, and George Gillet by G. Weller.

After a closely contested race, Huntress was declared the winner of the race and of the purse of $75.00.

Next followed a running race, for which William Wyche entered Mary Long, Barton and Medinger entered Vin, and L. H. Hitecock entered Mollie Darling. $80 to first horse, $20 to second; best two out of three.

This was a very interesting race, and was hotly contested, Mary Long, however, came in first and won first money and Mollie Darling came in second and was awarded the second money.

This closed the racing programme for to-day, however, followed by interesting and exciting scrub races, which were entered into by many citizens.

The scrub races were followed by a foot race, at the close of which, the race track and its surrounding began to be deserted.

The shades of a delightful evening were rapidly falling the slanting rays of a genial sun were casting lengthy shadows over the grounds, there was the sound of a whistle, a puff, a blow, and the train drew up at the station and the crowd rapidly took their places on board.

The Opera House—Hall's Combination.

Public attention is directed to the unusual character of the dramatic performance announced for to-morrow (Monday) and Tuesday evenings. The Company which Mr. T. A. Hall brings to our city is entirely composed of distinguished artists schooled in the best theatres of England and America, and includes well known Metropolitan favorites; for instance Mr. Louis L. James (one of the actors to appear on Monday) was for three or four years past the leading Tragedian of the Fifth Avenue Theatre, and one of the most accomplished young actors on the New York stage.

Edna Coleman was a great favorite in London and New York, and in special characters he has no superior on the English speaking stage. The frequenters of W. Black's Theatre, New York, will best remember his famous personation of "Dickens Quilp." In this character he has fulfilled a number of stage engagements in the principal northern cities.

Mr. Thos. Willard is celebrated both as a Comedian and Tenor singer. He is an accomplished artist and formerly of the Kellogg and Sulton Opera Troupes.

Harry Lee, a promising young actor, formerly a leading artist of Ford's Baltimore Theatre.

Mr. Fred Chippendale, of this Company, is regarded as one of the best comedians of old men on the American stage.

Mr. George Stoddard, John Gernm, E. B. Holmes, W. A. Sands, R. J. Hill and others of this Troupe are well known New York actors.

While in ladies the Company presents a phenomenal array of names, Miss Emma Pierce, Ada Gilman, Minnie Monk, Mrs. J. H. Rogers, Mrs. George Stoddard, Helen Tracy, Agnes Beeler, Mary Taylor, Mrs. E. Coleman, and others. Some in the list have appeared in the North's "Stars."

Single no Longer.

An interesting time was had last evening at the new confectionary store of Messrs. Curtis & Boatwright, where a number of gentlemen were engaged in raffling off a very handsome doll baby. The contest waged fiercely, but a man who goes it alone, a good bidder, located in the east side of South Front street, came off the winner in three straight heats. He immediately took charge of the fair maiden amid the plaudits of the crowd.

WILMINGTON.

What They Say of Us.

The correspondent of the Norfolk Virginian says in his letter of the visit of the City Guards to this city: "Wilmington has a busy, animated appearance, exhibiting the thrif of her merchants. It has greatly increased in population since the war, and is now a city of some 15,000 inhabitants. We notice at the wharves and at anchor a large number of foreign vessels, in cargoes of cotton, naval stores, and other commodities, and a large number of sailors and seamen, who are engaged in the trade of the North Atlantic.
